

June 15, 2026

..This is thus far the only, and I fear the last thing we see emerge from the craft that landed last month. It appears to feed on the very earth upon which we stand utilizing its caustic drool to assist in breaking down the rock, and the craft's markings indicate previous damage, apparently a struggle with a recently extinct species. Incalculable years of eating and digesting the minerals of worlds that now lay dead have rendered its hide heretofore indestructible. Furthermore, it has no apparent need for sleep or rest, and has marauded across the countryside unhindered for 8 days now.

--from the last known transmission of Dr. Frank Douglass, received by satellite EC-1085 on November 12, 2087